

Science of Kindness

“Researchers suggest that arts engagement promotes kindness through psychological experiences that happen when making art, like feeling carried away, building social and cognitive skills, creating connections and identities, and moral reflection. The arts naturally support human connection and social cohesion in ways that transcend differences.”

–Greater Good In Action, University of California, Berkeley, 2023

ben's bells